NUMB. 1162

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21. 1742.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from Holland.

St. Ildefonso, Sept. 4.

THEIR Majesties and the Royal Family often divert themselves by walking in the fine Gardens belonging to this Palace, where they are frequently regald with fine Concerts. The Court seems at present very well pleased with the News received from all Quarters, particularly with Letters from the Havana, dated June 10. wherein are contained the Particulars of the grand Expedition lately undertaken against Georgia. The first Embarkation consisted of 7 Frigates and 25 Transports, having on board 3000 Regular Troops, and a great Number of Volunteers, commanded in Chief by Don Manuel de Montiano, Governor of St. Augustine, who was to be joined by Part of that Garison and the Militia of the Country. The second Embarkation consists of a Detachment from the King's Squadron, of 3 Frigates and 4 other Vessels. These are to support the former, and to assist them in making themselves Masters of that Province.

Rome, Sept. 8. The Abbot Canillac, Auditor of the Rota for France, is charged with the Affairs of that Court till the Arrival of an Ambassador in the room of Cardinal Tencin. We have just now received the agreeable News, that the Senator Aldrovandi has prevailed upon the King of Sardinia and Count Traun, to withdraw their Forces out of the Bolognese. An Express from Foligno informs us, that the Duke de Montemar is recalled, and the Command of the Spanish Army given to the Count de Gage. We had rather he had brought us Word, that the Spaniards had found some Way to get back into their own Country; for otherwise we foresee they will return again, and winter in the Ecclesiastical State.

From the Austrian Camp in Bohemia, Sept. 12. M. de Koch, Secretary to the Cabinet, arrived here from Vienna on the 8th of this Month, and the same Day there was held a Grand Council of War. The next Morning the Inhabitants of the adjacent Villages were obliged to remove with their Effects. The heavy Artillery are secured, and to-morrow the Army will begin its March towards the Frontiers, in order to give Battle to Marshal Maillebois. General Festitz commands in Chief the Blockade, and we leave with him 16,000 Men.

Ratisbon, Sept. 20. We have the following melancholy Particulars from the Upper Palatinate. The Baron de Trenk, who has already made himself famous by Abundance of bold Exploits, arrived with about 1200 of his irregular Troops on the 7th of this Month before Chamb, a large fine Town, the Capital of a County of the same Name, into which the Inhabitants of the adjacent Villages had conveyed most of their Effects. The Baron having invested it with his Pandours, Talpalsches, and Croats, summoned them to surrender, which they refused. On the 9th, after a Siege of Two Days he stormed the Place, and setting Fire to the Suburbs it quickly reach'd the Town, so that the Inhabitants were obliged to open their Gates. The rest of the Day and Night were spent in pillaging the Place; which, to say nothing of the Outrages attending it, was performed with such Dexterity that by the 10th there was nothing left. About 200 of the Garison had their Throats cut, the rest are made Prisoners of War, and together with 11 Pieces of Brass Cannon have been sent to the Headquarters of the Austrian Army. The Baron de Trenk has for his Share of the Booty 300,000 Florins in Money and Silver Plate, each of his Officers in proportion, and every Pandour, Talpalsch, and Croat, 2 or 3000 Florins. He wrote on this Occasion the following Billet to Baron Berenchau:

'Sir, I scribble this in a Hurry, to let you know, that on the 9th in the Afternoon we made ourselves Masters of Chamb, after having in vain endeavour'd to bring the Inhabitants to a Composition. We have made a Bavarian Battalion Prisoners. My Pandours and Croats behaved to a Wonder. We have made a glorious Booty, which amounts not to some Hundred thousand Florins, or so, but to Millions. We are busy carrying off Things to our next Quarters, and therefore I am, &c.

Chamb, Sept. 10, 1742.

TRENK.

Paris, Sept. 21. On the 18th the King return'd to Versailles, the next Day Cardinal Tencin went thither, was extremely well receiv'd by the King, and afterwards took his Place in the Council, with M. D'Argenson. M.

de Stainville, Minister from the Great Duke, has receiv'd an Answer in relation to the Conference lately held in the Camp before Prague, and some People pretend to know that the Court offers to consent that the French Troops shall evacuate Bohemia, provided the Austrians at the same time quit Bavaria, and consent that our Troops return without Molestation into France. According to our Advices from Franconia Marshal Maillebois has join'd Count de Saxe, and as Prince Charles of Lorraine is marching towards them, we take it for granted that the next News we hear will be that of a general Engagement. By Letters from Port l'Orient we have Advice of the Arrival there of the Conde, from the East Indies, which must have perish'd at Sea and all her Crew have been starv'd, but for the Kindness of the Captains of five English East Indiamen, who generously clubb'd to furnish them with Provisions for their Return. The following Letter is allow'd to be genuine, and makes a great Noise here.

Extract of a Letter from Marshal Bellefe.

'Prague, Sept. 11. I believe the Grand Duke is a good deal embarrass'd and not a little vex'd at having engag'd in an Affair which he thought easier than he finds it. In Effect since their breaking Ground it is not they who have approached us, but we them.

'It is now ten Days since they began their second Parallel, without being yet able to join their Right and Left. We make every Day Sallics more or less, overturn all before us, and never return without Prisoners. We have now no less than 553 and 34 Officers, taken in the Trenches.

'Their Artillery has done little or no Execution for this Fortnight, and at the Rate they go on Mr. Maillebois may come soon enough any time this Month to our Relief. It would be proper that we should have Notice of the Route he takes, and of the Day that he will be at hand to attack the Besiegers, in case they should wait for him before the Place, and the Grand Duke be bold enough to give him Battle.

'Sept. 12. The Enemy have withdrawn a great Part of their Artillery, and they fire now with only seven or eight Pieces instead of 42; they have also taken up their Pallisades, and a great Number of Deserters assure us, that they have burnt their Fascines and Gabions, and that their Ammunition and Artillery have already taken the Road to Konigsal. All these Circumstances will not permit us to doubt that they are on the Point of raising the Siege, we only want to know what Measure the Grand Duke will pursue next; whatever it be, I reckon we shall very soon be at liberty.

'Sept. 14. My Letter not going as I expected, I am this Day to inform you the Siege is raised. The Enemy in the Night between the 12th and 13th carried off the Artillery from their Trenches, which they abandon'd as soon as it was Day. We made ourselves Masters of them on the Spot, and have ever since work'd in filling them up. Last Night they set fire to their Camp, the Houses and Villages adjoining to it, and this Morning the Army began its March. They appear to take the Road to Beraun, whither they will go from thence we know not, any more than what Force the Grand Duke has left to block us up.'

SCOTLAND.

Edinburgh, Sept. 13. On Thursday his Excellency General Clayton arrived here, from reviewing the Troops in the North and West.

That Night one Macritchie, belonging to the Queensferry, was unfortunately tossed over-board, being struck with the Sail of a Passage-boat coming from the North-Queensferry, and perished, leaving a poor Widow and eight Orphans.

Edinburgh, Sept. 14. Last Night the most Hon. Marquis of Tweeddale, one of his Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, arrived at his Lordship's fine Seat of Yester, from London.

dock. Sailed out of the Harbour the Endeavour, Newland, for Madeira. This Morning arrived at Spithead two homeward-bound East Indiamen, and five more are expected, their Names you shall have as soon as they arrive.

Dover, Sept. 18. Wind E. and blows hard. The Vessel that was ashore here, which you had Account of Yesterday, is entirely lost, as is her Cargo, which was Salt, except a few Casks of Wine, which are sav'd. One of the East India Ships is now a-brest of the S. Foreland, and I believe may get the Downs this Tide; another is plying about two Miles to the Westward of this Place; a third is at Anchor about four Miles to the Westward; the rest, with the Men of War, are bore away as tis imagin'd for Portsmouth.

Dover, Sept. 19. Wind E. by N. and blows hard. The King William, Philips, and the Kent, Robson, from India, are both got to the Downs about this time; the Scarborough, Westcott, is now a-brest of the South Foreland, and I believe will get the Downs this Tide; none of the other four, nor the Men of War, are in Sight. Past two o'Clock.

The most Delightful Fragrant TINCTURE for the Breath, Teeth and Gums.
AT once using makes the BREATH most charmingly fine, sweet, and pleasant, the Teeth perfectly white, clean and beautiful, and is the most certain Cure for the Scourvy in the Gums in the World.
It infallibly preserves the Breath, Teeth and Gums in their utmost Beauty and Perfection, if they are no Ways disorder'd, and if they are, immediately rectifies all their Defects; for the same Minute it is used it makes the most offensive Breath smell incomparably fine and charming, and in a short Time effectually cures, that disagreeable Breath will not return. It instantly makes the blackest and most foul Teeth extremely white and delicately beautiful; infallibly preserves them from decaying, and those a little decay'd from becoming worse; absolutely cures the Scourvy in the Gums, be it ever so inveterate, causing the Flesh to grow up to the Teeth again, when almost eaten quite away, and assuages fastens loose Teeth to Admiration. It is to be used but a few Drops at a Time, is exceeding pleasant, and leaves a very grateful and delectable Flavour in the Mouth.
In a Word, for most delightfully performing, and quickly curing an ill-scented Breath, for immediately making the blackest Teeth most excellently white, certainly fastening them when loose, effectually preserving them from rotting or decaying, and infallibly curing the Scourvy in the Gums, it has not its Equal in the Universe, as all the Quality and principal Gentry, who use it acknowledge.
